

Methods	Key Qualifications	Conferences
Learning Outcome: Acquisition and application of methods used in academic research in general and empirical research in particular	Learning Outcome: Facilitation on personal development as a researcher, particularly verbal and written articulation in research and teaching	Learning Outcome: Support of the ability to present one's research results to the academic world outside one's home university
Exemplary Modules: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Experimental research</li> <li>• Discrete optimization</li> <li>• Academic writing</li> <li>• Meta-analysis</li> <li>• Qualitative research methods</li> </ul>	Exemplary Modules: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• English for PhDs</li> <li>• Scientific ethics and philosophy of science</li> <li>• Presentation techniques</li> <li>• International academic teaching in English</li> <li>• Rhetoric course</li> </ul>	Modules: You can submit several conference modules. A conference module is a conference participation (presentation at a relevant scientific conference with selection procedure).
Institutions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• White List: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– WFI module offer,</li> <li>– Workshop program: Academic careers of Catholic University</li> </ul> </li> <li>• Extern modules: e.g. VHB, ProfiLehrePlus, GPOM, and others</li> </ul>		Provider: Supervisor of the doctorate as module supervisor in cooperation with the respective professional associations, universities or research institutions
*The exemplary modules listed here stem from the White Lists or from external offers.

Fig. 1: Methods – Key Qualifications – Conferences, the three areas of doctoral study program