

CALL FOR PAPERS

2nd Conference of the KU Research Institute for Taxation

29 January 2027

The KU Research Institute for Taxation invites submissions to its second academic conference. The Institute brings together scholars from Public Finance and Business Taxation, fostering exchange across disciplinary and methodological boundaries. The conference provides a forum for presenting and discussing current research on taxation.

SCOPE

We welcome novel research from all fields of taxation. Topics include, but are not limited to, corporate taxation, personal income taxation, wealth and property taxation, tax policy, tax avoidance and evasion, tax compliance and enforcement, tax administration, distributional effects, and behavioral responses to taxation. We particularly welcome early-stage research and work in progress, alongside more mature papers. The conference is methodologically open. Contributions may be analytical or theoretical, empirical, experimental, or combine different methodological approaches.

KEYNOTE

We are delighted to announce that Prof. Dr. Martin Jacob (IESE Business School) will deliver the keynote address.

YOUNG RESEARCHER PRIZE

The KU Research Institute for Taxation will award a Young Researcher Prize of €500 for an outstanding contribution presented at the conference. The prize is sponsored by Deloitte.

Researchers are eligible if they are currently PhD students or received their PhD no more than two years before the conference date. To be considered for the prize, eligible researchers should indicate this in their submission email.

Co-authored papers are eligible, provided that the eligible young researcher presents the paper at the conference. In this case, the submission email should also briefly describe the young researcher's contribution to the project.

SUBMISSION AND IMPORTANT DATES

Please submit your manuscript in PDF format by email to taxation@ku.de. Submissions should be received no later than 15 November 2026. Authors will be notified of the acceptance decision in early December 2026.

Submission deadline	15 November 2026
Notification of acceptance	Early December 2026
Conference	29 January 2027
Location	KU Eichstätt-Ingolstadt, Auf der Schanz 49, 85049 Ingolstadt

Organizers

Prof. Dr. Dominika Langenmayr • Prof. Dr. Reinald Koch

KU Research Institute for Taxation | Katholische Universität Eichstätt-Ingolstadt | taxation@ku.de