

The Catholic University of Eichstätt-Ingolstadt (KU) is a non-state university under church leadership and officially recognized by the Free State of Bavaria. It is committed to strong research and excellent teaching and combines first-class study conditions with an international focus. Eight faculties offer a wide range of subjects for around 5,000 students. The University employs 900 people of different faiths and beliefs. Grounded in the Christian view of human life, the KU aims to create an academic and educational culture of responsibility.

The KU Faculty of Languages and Literatures invites applications for the

to be filled by the earliest possible starting date.

The KU is committed to increasing the percentage of women in research and teaching and therefore explicitly encourages female researchers to apply.

Your responsibilities

The holder of the professorship should represent English literary studies in its entire spectrum in research and teaching and contribute to the academic profile of the University through excellent research achievements in the form of international reviewed publications and peer-reviewed third-party funding. By initiating new and supporting ongoing research collaborations, you strengthen the academic profile of the Faculty and University. The willingness to participate in the Research Training Group "Practicing Place" funded by the German Research Foundation (DFG) is expected. In the degree programs involving English Literary Studies (Interdisciplinary BA/MA, teaching program LehramtPlus), you offer high-quality and innovative teaching, especially in the teacher training programs that prepare students for the Bavarian State Examination. In addition, you will participate in other teaching tasks of the Faculty and be responsible for the coordination and further development of degree programs involving English Literary Studies. In addition, you will be involved in the University's Third Mission Strategy, cooperate with other subjects and universities as well as with non-university partners. Likewise, the successful candidate is required to assume responsibility in academic self-administration.

Your profile

As the holder of the professorship, you have established research expertise with international visibility, as evidenced by relevant publications in peer-reviewed journals/books or with renowned publishers. Your research should focus on at least one period of English literary history since 1500 (preferably from the early modern period). In addition, contributions from either the digital humanities, cognitive poetics or literary theory are also welcome. You can demonstrate success in acquiring peer-reviewed third-party funding and are closely networked nationally and internationally with other universities and/or non-university partners and research institutions. Your proven teaching skills, diverse teaching experience and didactic skills are evidenced by positive teaching evaluations, university teaching methodology certificates or teaching awards, for example. Your excellent German and English language skills enable you to teach courses both in German and English. Your interdisciplinary qualifications also include leadership skills, a role model function, participation in interdisciplinary qualification and networking opportunities and a high level of social skills.

The requirements for employment are based on Art. 57 (1) Bavarian Higher Education Innovation Act (BayHIG) and include, in addition to the general requirements of the position, at least a completed university degree in English and American studies, English literary studies or in the subject English (including teaching degrees), an educational suitability, the special aptitude for scientific work, which is usually demonstrated by the quality of a doctorate in English literary studies, as well as additional independent scientific achievements. These can be demonstrated by a habilitation, a junior professorship or through equivalent scientific achievements, which can also be achieved outside the university sector. Managing a junior research group constitutes an equivalent scientific achievement under the conditions specified in Art. 98 para. 10 s. 5 BayHIG. When appointed as a civil servant, the successful candidate must not be older than 52 years of age at the time of appointment. The KU pursues a policy of intensive student mentoring and therefore expects its teaching staff to spend an appropriate amount of time on campus.

Your application

Please send your application with the usual supporting documents by e-mail to dekanat-slf@ku.de to the Dean, Prof. Dr. Friederike Herrmann by April 11, 2025 (please combine all documents in one PDF file). All submitted application documents will be destroyed in accordance with data protection regulations after the hiring process has been completed.

Please note the KU's privacy policy for the application process. Corresponding information can be downloaded from the KU website at <https://www.ku.de/en/the-ku/job-offers>. By submitting your application, you confirm that you have taken note of the data protection information and the privacy policy.

All employees are obliged to acknowledge the nature and mission of the KU as stipulated in its Mission Statement and Foundation Charter. The University is therefore interested in receiving applications with relevant information in this regard. Other than that, there are no denominational requirements for employment at the KU.
