

MODULES THAT MAY BE CHOSEN MULTIPLE TIMES

As a general rule, each module offered by the KU can only be taken once.

Each module consists of one or more courses (a lecture and/or seminar and/or exercise, etc.). A module is usually completed with an examination.

Even if several different courses are offered for a module, the module may only be counted as a compulsory module or an elective compulsory module or an elective module in the degree program in which the student is enrolled once.

After a module has been entered for the student's degree program, if the student completes the same module a second or third time it can only be entered in the transcript of records as an additional voluntary achievement and may not be included in the final academic record.

An exception is made to this rule for modules for which it is explicitly stated in the examination regulations that the module may be chosen multiple times.

Only these modules may be completed up to three times with different courses with different content and counted toward the degree program each time in accordance with the examination regulations.

When registering for the corresponding examination on KU.Campus, students must register for the first time (Erstablesung), the second time (Zweitablesung), or the third time (Drittablesung) accordingly.

For example:

The module ÄDL Textanalyse (Early German Literature Text Analysis) may be chosen multiple times according to the examination regulations.

The same module title is listed multiple times in the final academic record. From the second time onward, 'Verbreiterung/Vertiefung' (Advanced) is added to the module title. The title of each examination is given in the transcript of records, which makes it clear that different courses with different content were completed each time the module with the same name was taken.

For example, a student has completed this module three times with different content.
