

Research at the KU

The research that is carried out at the KU is highly varied and covers a wide range of different areas. Research is conducted at all of the University's faculties and institutes, as well as additional research centers. Information on our researchers' projects is available in our database KU.fordoc. In addition to their work in their individual fields, many KU researchers are also involved in interdisciplinary projects related to cross-cutting topics. Many projects results can be accessed via the KU's publication database KU.edoc.