The establishment of an own department for HR development and professional training mirrors the KU's belief that qualified and motivated staff (including both academic and research support staff) significantly contributes to the success of its academic community of teachers and students – so to speak the universitas in its literal sense.

The department "HR Development and Professional Training" sees itself as a service provider for all groups of employees at the KU. The University encourages its employees to actively engage in professional training in order to consolidate and expand on existing skills. The University Management attaches particular importance to continuously making the KU a more attractive environment for work and research.

Over the following months, the professional training offers for all groups of employees will be expanded and fine-tuned. In order for this to be successful, the department relies on the employees' active participation. If you have any wishes, ideas or questions concerning HR development and professional training, please feel free to contact Dr. Jennifer Dobschenzki to share your ideas or concerns.

We are looking forward to your active participation!

The section „Aktuelles“ offers information on current events, developments and news in relation to HR development at the KU (in German).

Please note: Also our website is constantly developing further, which is why our internet presence is updated and expanded in regular intervals. All development processes take their time – thank you for your patience and understanding!

The KU is a member of the German network for HR development at universities. (UniNetzPE).
